Sandwiches:

Errol Flynn - A dainty sausage between two tender buns with leafy green lettuce and mayo. Comes with fruit plate. -----$

Fernando Lamas - Spicy salami with just a touch of Tabasco, served on a pita. It looks MARVELOUS, Darling. MARVELOUS.-----$

Gregory Peck - Meatloaf on white bread. Straightforward and standard, but of a reliable quality and everyone seems to really like it.-----$

Charlton Heston - Ham, and lots of it. Also cheese. Keep your hands ON this sandwich, you damn dirty diner! We wouldn't want to have to shoot you. -----$

Kirk Douglas - Steak sandwich. Can be a little tough to chew, but it's easy to swallow. Served With a toothpick. I am Sandwich-cus! No, I am Sandwich-cus! -----$

Wally Burger - A juicy 1/3 pound burger with ketchup, mustard, two pickles and a slice of cabbage. No, you can't get it without. Cabbage is good for you -----$

Entrees:

(All Entrees served with soup and salad.)

Chicken-Fried Steak - If you need me to explain it, you shouldn't be eating in a diner. -----$

Liver and Onions - For Chrissakes, order it. Please? It's just hanging out in the freezer, dragging down the balance sheet. ---- $

Fried Chicken - That son-of-a-bitch Colonel Sanders stopped Here and ordered the chicken three years ago. Today, he's a millionaire. Someday, I'm going to kill him. -----$

Fried Fish - So, it's a little on the pricey side. YOU try getting fish on a plate for less than six bucks in the middle of the desert. --$

Pork Tenderloin - Heh, heh. I said "pork." Heh, heh. I said "tender." Huh, huh. I said "loin." Please kill me. I'm dyin' here. -----$
